Service Career Service Board concluded that the nature and extent of [REDACTED] domestic service involved the support of clandestine operations abroad and meets the requirements for domestic qualifying service under the CIA Retirement Act. The Retirement Board concluded that [REDACTED] domestic service was not qualifying under any of the provisions of [REDACTED] 25X1A The Board recommended that [REDACTED] not be approved for participation in the CIA Retirement and Disability System.

5. The Board next considered a request from the Director, Basic and Geographic Intelligence for the deferment of [REDACTED] retirement from 30 September 1971 until 30 September 1973 based on a need for his services. D/BGI states that [REDACTED] occupies a critical position. He is a Printing and Publications Assistant, in the Cartography Division, responsible for the maintenance of the Division's cartographic file and retrieval system. As such, he is a critical element in the smooth flow of Division production to the reproduction plant, the Records Center and Archives, and most importantly, with the various components of the Division. This position has always been essential to the effective operation of the Division and has been extremely difficult to fill with conscientious and dedicated personnel. Experience in the past has shown that it takes approximately 18-24 months for a newly assigned Printing and Publications Assistant to become proficient in his job, and the position requires an expertness difficult to acquire but very essential to the smooth operation of the Division. D/BGI further stated that at present the Cartography Division is in the early stages of reorganization and relocation of components and personnel to establish an All-Source Center, and it would be to the advantage of the Division to have [REDACTED] available during this period of transition to direct the relocation of the present file room and the absorption of the Current Intelligence Branch filing facilities. The Deputy Director for Intelligence concurred in this recommendation. The Board recommended that [REDACTED] be granted an extension of his retirement until 30 September 1973 for operational reasons, with the understanding that this is a terminal extension and no further extension will be granted.
